

Blank Paper

I look upon this blank paper like an artist with a canvas.
Words paint the start of a story not yet told.
Characters, colorful lifestyles within the story.
How would the characters touch my readers' feelings.?

Characters you might relate to or hate.
It's only the nature of the character.
Read on: Danger; Adventure; whatever your pleasure.
Blank paper: an author, playwright turns it into a screenplay.

Libraries full of treasures, of many lives and times in authors' books.
Authors' knowledge, wisdom between the pages, in stories told.
I am glad my friends who are authors share their wisdom and ideas.
Yet I am an amateur with my writing, it's often hard to express in words.

A blank paper, once a beautiful tree.
Birds will build their nest and sing bird songs.
Small animals climb into its branches.
Animals hunt below its trunk or seek shelter there.

This beautiful tree, cut down for its wood and paper.
Birds songs and animals now silent and gone.
The wood used for homes and paper: many things.
Children playing outside their home under a tree.

Trees shade, cooling the children, listening to bird songs.
Some children dance with the movement of branches.
Other children draw pictures of the birds and tree.
Yet there are other children writing what they see.

This is only a blank paper?
